

ROYAL DOULTON, IN THEIR "BURGUNDY" PATTERN OF TRANSLUCENT CHINA DINNER SET

Posted on November 4, 2022 by Andres G

---

This is a professional appraisal report for provided upon request. It contains a detailed description and evaluation of your . This document also includes information about how to sell your item and about the valuation method we've used. Keep in mind that the appraisal value is only applicable to this particular unit and should NOT be understood as a general valuation of . It is very important to understand this, as values can range from 100 to 100K depending on subtle details.

This report is designed to give you an appraisal value for the you own, whether it is

www.appraisily.com

APPRAISALS
MADE EASY

furniture, china, glassware, or other types of antique or collectible items. The information provided will help you to understand your piece and its value. It also provides an appraisal value in US dollars, as well as how to sell it. This report is not intended to encourage you to sell your antique; rather it aims to provide information on your antique's value so that you know what steps to take if you do wish to sell.

Description and history of

A Royal Doulton, in their "Burgundy" pattern of Translucent China Dinner Set.

Identification

This is a set made by Royal Doulton.

Founded in 1815, Royal Doulton is a prolific ceramic and china manufacturer. Based in London, the company has produced some of the most iconic designs of the past two centuries, including the world-famous Pollyanna figure and the best-selling Strawberry Thief pattern. Today, Royal Doulton continues to be a leader in tableware design, with a wide range of options that are perfect for everything from formal dinners to casual family meals. Whether you're looking for intricate patterns or simple but elegant designs, Royal Doulton has something to suit every taste. And with a longstanding reputation for quality and craftsmanship, you can be sure that your Royal Doulton tableware will be a cherished part of your home for years to come.

Provenance

The set was made circa early 20th Century in Great Britain.

Age

The pattern was made during first half of 20th Century.

Style

Burgundy is the pattern name of this set:

www.appraisily.com

APPRAISALS
MADE EASY

Appraisal Value ($)

$700-800 FOR 12 PCS SET

Appraisal Report made by:

Andrés Gómez

BSc, MSc, Expert Art Appraiser

10+ years of experience in online antique and collectible appraisals.

100k+ Customers Served.

Antique Store Owner.

You can check my portfolio of past appraisals here:

<https://www.appraisily.com/andres-portofolio/>

Signature:

www.appraisily.com

APPRAISALS
MADE EASY

We have Experts online now.

I WANT MY APPRAISAL

Pictures received.

How to sell it

Antiques, art, and other collectibles are difficult items to sell online. Selling can take a lot of time. Be patient, but also make sure that the price you are asking for is the right one for

www.appraisily.com

APPRAISALS
MADE EASY

your pieces of art. Consider the following tips on how to sell antiques and collectibles online: These tips will help maximize the price of your antique or collectible.

I would recommend selling it online. There are many ways to do this. For instance, Post an ad on Craigslist. Use eBay to sell antiques online. Post a listing on the Etsy marketplace. Sell with direct messages using Instagram. You can create a website using Squarespace or WordPress. Use Shopify to sell via a website, POS and social channels. List your items on Bonanza.com, Facebook Marketplaces, or Amazon Marketplaces. If you don't have time, I would recommend starting with Facebook, Etsy, and Amazon.

The key to selling antiques online is to let potential customers know that you know what you are talking about. It's much more difficult to sell something when the potential buyer can't be sure it's authentic. Sellers should use a well thought out descriptive guide like this one. A good lead generation service should be helpful in establishing these relationships with online buyers, and an effective way to do this is through classified ads. If a buyer asks for more information, giving them some valuable facts well ahead of time will get you more sales because your reputation will increase and real customers are the ones who ask for more details.

In order to sell your antiques online, you will need to create a profile on the relevant forum (Etsy, Amazon, and FB). Make sure you add a high-resolution image of the product (include at least 3 detailed photos) and add some text. The text should be informative and straight to the point; nothing fancy or fluffy.

Asking price is a big factor in selling your antique. If your asking price is too high (fancy company stickers, missing parts, or chipped paint), you are unlikely to get many bids. If the asking price is too low, it will cost you money for repairs, shipping, and insurance. As a general rule, I would recommend setting an asking price that is 80% of the value of this report, so you will make the listing attractive from the beginning.

www.appraisily.com

APPRAISALS
MADE EASY

About the valuation method

This is a detailed report of the value of your piece. To determine the value, the appraiser has considered the results from past auction sales. Keep in mind that the final price can be different from the asking price that you can find on the internet. You can see ads on the internet with different asking prices. However, a very high asking price doesn't normally find cash from a buyer.

That's why our method comprises searching and comparing similar past sale results that had a buyer. That's why we can provide an accurate estimation of this item.

To get an accurate valuation of your antique piece, I considered the following: description, condition, and possible precious metal content. History, age, provenance, and the importance it has played in history are also considered. A crucial interest is a collector's willingness to buy this piece. While some antiques are really collectible, others are really difficult to sell, and hence their value decreases.

Antiques can be a good investment. A piece's year of manufacture, condition, rarity, and history can all influence an antique's value. Antiques, when bought wisely and carefully, can provide many good years, even decades, of enjoyment before their value appreciates significantly. Antique furniture, paintings, prints, and maps are not only useful works of art but also tangible assets. Their value in the market increases every year, making them great long-term investments for people who want to diversify their assets.

www.appraisily.com

APPRAISALS
MADE EASY

There are no comments yet.

www.appraisily.com

APPRAISALS
MADE EASY

#Appraisily

www.appraisily.com

APPRAISALS
MADE EASY

#Appraisily